SPURGEON IS DYING.

The Great English Preacher Is in Danger. London, December 27.-A dispatch from Mentone says that the throat ailment of Mr. Spurgeon, the well-known London divine, has assumed a grave aspect. The doctors in attendance diagnose the case as one of gout. Mr. Spurgeon also suffers severely with pains in his knees. Charles Haddon Spurgeon, who discards the usual title of reverend, is an English Bap-tist minister of the liberal type. While he teaches that baptism should be administered to believers exclusively, he administers the Lord's supper to those who differ from him in this view. On the other hand, he is the paster of a church which refuses church membership to all excepting those who hold that only persons who have been baptized after the profession of their faith in Christianity should be admitted to church membership. All the members of the church are, therefore, Baptists, but all Christians are welcome to commune with them. He has revived the old-fashioned Calvinistic preaching in England, but those who condemn what is in their view narrow theological teaching admire and love its hearted, manly and genial defender. Mr. Spurgeon's wonderful success as a minister seems to be due in great part to his sympathetic, sunny and brotherly disposition, his humor and ready wit. Associated with these and tending to the same end, is his uncompromising adherence to the theological scheme which he embraced in his early life. His teaching is certain and consistent, and also characterized by an extraordinary simplicity of expression, assisted by apt illustration. He is a diligent student of the Puritan divines, of Bunyan particularly. His delivery is easy, perfectly natural and unaffected, earnest but not impassioned, highly pleasing and impressive, but not exemplifying the highest form of oratory. appearance is dumpy and neither very intel-lectual nor refined, but his smile is fascinat-

Mr. Spurgeon is the son of a Congregational minister. He was born in Kelvedon, Essex, Fredland in 1824 When 18 years and in teleschool as a pupil and engaged himself as an under teacher at Nowmarket. After a remarkable religious experience he gave his thoughts to the ministry of the Baptist de-nomination, of which he had become a member. His first sermon was delivered while he held the position of assistant master in a school at Cambridge, was preached in a tiny village chapel, and was heard with remarkable interest. His services were sought eargerly after this, and he was known over a considerable piece of country as the Park Street chapel, Southwark, London, where he attained marvelous popularity.

His congregation so far outgrew the accommodations provided that in 1859 the erection of a monster building was decided upon. It was opened free of debt two years afterward and from that time until now has been attened by a congregation averaging over six thousand persons on Sundays when the great preacher occupies the rostrum. Mr. Spurgeon once preached to a congregation of 25,000 at the Crystal palace, near London When, during the progress of repairs at his metropolitan tabernacle, he preached in the agricultural hall, Islington, his audience numbering about 20,000 persons at every service Connected with his church, outgrowths of its energies, are the pastors' college, from which several hundreds of young men have been sent out as ministers, and an orphanage which was begun at the instance of a lady friend who sent Mr. Spurgeon a check for $100,000 with which to begin it. About 300 orphans are fed, lodged, clothed and educated in this institution. Other institutions connected with the tabernacle are a colportage association, almshouse for aged women, missionary sta tions, Sunday schools, a mission to the blind, ladies' benevolent and maternal societies, and many others. Mr. Spurgeon was happily married when a young man. His twin sonshe has no other children-are ministers. A Pathetic Divorce Case Ended
St. Louis, December 27.—One of the most pathetic separations that have ever been legally ordained occurred here yesterday, when Maria H. Miller received a divorce from Louis Miller. The latter is a Russian, and was exited for political reasons. He left in Russia a wife and child, whom he supported for five years after coming to America. Then came the Russo-Turkish war, and nothing mo e was heard from the wife and child. Miller was informed that they were dead, and he mourned them as lost. He did well in business here, and in 1884 married the woman who secured the divorce today. They lived happlly. Meanwhile the original Mrs. Miller and her boy, the latter now grown to manhood, arrived in this country, and came to St. Louis. Father and son met, and, though neither suspected the other's identity for several months, friends spoke of the likeness, and suddenly the boy told his story. Miller visited his Russian wife, and there was a reconciliation. When the scood wife learned the story she quickly sued for divorce, and the happy union was broken. She bade Miller an affectionate farewell yesterday, and he installed his first wife and his son in the old home.

JESUP, Ga., December 27 .- [Special.]-Four prisoners, all negroes, have been landed in the county jail today, but apart from these arrests, and a chase by bloodhounds through the swamp, nothing has occurred to interest the people. One of the negroes arrested is a prother-in-law of Brewer. Just before daylight a scout rushed into the hotel where the Brunswick soldiers were sleeping. In one hand he carried the familiar Winchester, in the other a long pistol. At the top of his "They are at the jail. Hurry up, be quick." The man was trembling from excitement or fear; the officer of the guard could not tell which. In a few minutes, however, the riflemen were up and under arms. THEN FIRING BEGAN IN THE EASTERN SECTION of the city, where the jall is located. Following this quickly came a half dozen men, all declaring that the jail had been assaulted. Captain Morris threw his company into a skirmish line and started towards the jail. The march was not a long one, and was made in quick time, but at the jail nothing was found. The place wore a deserted air, and had not been in any way molested. The men remained about the jail for a half hour, and then returned to the hotel. Early in the morning Frank Hig-ginbotham, of Brunswick, who has a pair of trailing hounds, came to town in response to a telegram from Mayor Hopps. In a short time a pursuing party had been organized and mounted, led by one of the best woodsmen in the country. The party started out about eight o'clock. Soon after Higginbotham and his dogs left town, a telegram was received from Doctortown, five miles away on the Savannah, Florida and Western saying that A GANG OF NEGROES was organizing there. Almost instantly a dozen white men, armed to the teeth, were en route to Doctortown. Three hours later the party came back bringing along three negroes. The arrival of the prisoners created an intense excitement in town, and almost before the men had been taken from the train, they were surrounded by a crowd. The negroes were thoroughly frightened and were begging for protection. The whites were angry and threatening, and for a time danger was imminent. The prisoners, however, were safely jailed, and in a short time quiet appeared to have been restored. An hour later another negro was brought in, surrounded by A SQUAD OF ARMED MEN.

This arrest aroused the people again, and the scenes of an hour or two before were re-enacted Soon after the arrest of the negroes Captain ing, and his voice is sweet, clear and flexible. Morris went to the mayor and, informing him that he was going to leave for home, advised that the prisoners be taken to Brunswick for saie keeping. For some cause, however, the request was denied, and at 11 o'clock the company pulled out for home. Not a store has been opened in the town since the shooting began until today. The places

The Waterbeach, whence he removed to the New horses were all badly used up, and men were worn out. CLOSE UPON THE NEGRO and the horsemen were just behind. In the chase Higginbotham's horse fell with him and he was badly hurt. The dogs, though lamed by the rough ground, stuck to the trail and ran the negro into a tree again. Here he was surcounded by the party and brought down. He succeeded in giving a clear account of himself and was turned lose. About dark it was in timated that an assault would, in all probability, be made made upon the jail tonight, and that the four prisoners would be dealt with, The jail has no guard, and this recalls something about the sheriff. The Doctortown Rising. DOCTORTOWN, Ga., December 27 .- 9 p. m .-Special.]—This is a small village on the S. and W., about six miles from Jesup. Tonight a party of men attempted to arrest a negro, near here, who is supposed to be one of the Brewer gang. The negro resisted and was shot, the wound being, it is thought, a fatal one. The shooting caused great excitement, and crowds of negroes gathered, but no harm E. C. BRUFFEY.

Jesup Alarmed Again. Johnson Station, Ga., December 27 .- [Spec ial.]-The people of Jesup are up and in arms again. About ten o'clock, telegrams were received from that place, saying that fifty armed negroes were going to advance upon Jesup. A party of armed men are now searching for the party in the woods, but, so far, have certained nothing. E. C. BRUFFEY. ascertained nothing.

Riddled With Bullets. BIRMINGHAM, Ala., December 27 .- [Special.]

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., December 27.—[Special.] Bud Wilson, a negro, was lynched in Fayette county, Alabama, about ten days ago, but the fact did not leak out until today. It is believed the officers who had the negro in charge were in sympathy with the lynching party. A few days before the lynching, Wilson attempted to outrage Mrs. James Fowler, a white woman, whom he found alone at her home. He was captured, and omcers started with him to the county jail. A party of white men took the negro, hung him to a tree and riddled his body with bullets. A Telegrapher Killed. NEEDLES, Cala., December 27 .- C. W. NEEDLES, Cala., December 21.—C. W. Davis, day telegraph operator at Peach Springs, Arizona, was shot and killed last night near the major per solution of the shooting, has been arrested. There are fears that he will be lynched before the sheriff of the county arrives. The shooting is supposed to have grown out of a fight which the men had yesterday, in which Davis was badly besten and kiczed in the face and head.

In her letter, which is dated Beauvoir House, Beauvoir, Miss., December 21, Mrs. Davis says:

General Imboden Before the House Ways Washington December 27.—The house ways and means committee went promptly to work at 10 o'clock this morning and listened to a statement by C. S. Landers, of New Britain, Conn., on the subject of table cuttery. He was satisfied with the provision of the senate bill, except in regard to one feature of classification. The average duty on table cuttlery imposed by the bill was 52 per cent and the change proposed in classification would increase the average to 56 2-3 cents. Cutlery man-mactures would have to be protected or they ulactures would have to be protected or they would have to die,

J. Logan Chipman, of Michigau, read telegrams from various stove firms in Michigau protesting against mica being removed from the free list.

GENERAL IMBODEN SPRAKS.

General Imboden, of Virginia, speaking for his duty on coal and from ore. In fact, he feet that it would be a wise policy to increase that duty. He described the growth of the coal, iron and rallroad industries. In Virginia, Tennessee and Kentucky, and contended that all this industry would be imperilled if coal was placed on the free list. Having stated that coal from the Virginia coal fields was sold in the West Indies and Central America, General Impoden was asked by Mr. Carlisle whether if that we true. Virginia coal producers could not stated that coal from the Virginia coal fields was sold in the West Indies and Central America, General Imboden was asked by Mr. Carlisle whether if that we true. Virginia coal producers could not coal, General Imboden responded in the negative and declared that an abolition of outy would ruin the coal industry of Virginia. He then proceeded to argue in support of retaining the duty on from ore. He represented not skilled labor, but unskilled labor. The men who worked the mines in the south were principally negroes. Those people had to be provided with work. If they did not receive work they would live on the whites dishonestly. A negro would not steal if he could get work. Negroes were the best mine workers. They were paid promptly and treated kindly. Let congress do nothing which would deprive these people of the opportunity of making an honest living by delving in the ground with pickax and shovel. He (Imboden) was a protectionist. He had always been one, and he believed that if in the south there could be a square vote on protection issue without any extraneous issues, protectionists would overwhelmingly carry at least four or five southern states. extraneous issues, protectionists would overwhelm ingly carry at least four or five southern states. The north had been made rich by protection. It was now the opportunity of the south to become rich. If anybody was to be protected he would rather make an American rich than a Hungarian, an Italian or Belgian. Mr. Flowers, of New York, inquired (in reference to the remark as to elections in the south) whether General Inboden meant that the color line had to be drawn and that the gentleman had to vote against his sentiment.

HOW THE GENERAL VOTES.

General Imboden—We are compelled to stand together there under certain conditions. The tariff sinks into insignificance. In the recent election I sinks into insignificance. In the recent election I voted with extreme reluctance the democratic ticket, but I did it. [Laughter.] I think I need not go any further than call attention to the action of the president, whom I respect, and of the speaker of the house, whom I sincerely respect. Both are able and patriotic and sincere men, but they have able and patriotic and sincere men, but they have put a stamp on men in the south whom we do not vote for. The president has not selected as a representative of the people a single southern man to a foreign mission. In the house there are sixteen republicans from the south, only one got the chairmanship of a committee. On this question of protection I am republican, on local questions I am a democrat. [Laugher.]

Mr. McKenns, of California—We are glad to receive the approval of your judgment, even if you cannot vote with us. [Laughter.]

Mr. Gear inquired what men now working in the mines would off they should be thrown jout of work.

General Imboden—If they had no labor they would have to go to stealing chickens. [Laughter.] ITS EFFECT ON BUSINESS. The Weather Makes Several Branches of

NEW YORK, December 27 .- R. G. Dun & company's weakly review of trade, says:

A pause in business is usual at the end of the year, but this year the unseasonable weather and much pressure for money at the east, makes dull-ness border on the depression. While the pros-pects for the future are generally regarded with great confidence the present state, of the trade is not quite satisfactory, and in some quarters the not quite satisfactory, and in some quarters the delay of collections causes fear of commercial embarrassments. This is more particularly noticeable in the clothing and furnishing trades at Philadelphia and in many lines of business at Cieveland, Detroit and Milwaukee. Sales of dry goods are also falling off at Chicago, though payments are reported good, and the clothing trade there is dull and the shoe trade quiet. But at western points, with scarcely an exception, the open weather and bad condition of country roads are noticed as causes of unusually slow collections.

LARGE HOLIDAY BUSINESS.

In other respects reports of trade are generally In other respects reports of trade are generally satisfactory. The holiday business has been large at nearly every point reporting, though affected by the weather at Detroit. The movement of grain at Chicago continues equal to that of last year to date, with an increase of fifty per cent in beef products, receipts of butter nearly doubled, and a slight increase in lard, but some decline in cheese, wool and hides. At Philadelphia, while there is unusual inactivity in drygroods, except holiday articles and rool and cotton, business is dull and coal much wool and cotton, business is dull and coal much depressed.

The grocers trade reports a prosperous year, but very light sales at present. The paper trade is also light and collections there slow. At Boston, all the wholesale trade has been quiet, but some retailers report holiday sales shead of last year. Wool is inactive but steady, and hides, leather and boots and shoes moving fairly at unchanged prices. The weak points of the situation are those trades which are most affected by two successive mild winters. The anthractic coal trade is stagnant in the absence of demand, and the situation

IS ALMOST WITHOUT PRECEDENT.

More than half of the Reading coal mines have closed, throwing eight thousand miners out of work and it is stated that twenty thousand miners are working on three-quarters time. The bituminous season, and in all quarters the delay of collection is felt.

On the other hand,

THE IRON BUSINESS

continues to prosper. Though sales of pig are not very large, prices are very firm at Philadelphia, and $19,50 is quoted here for number one. Sales of 35,000 tons steel rails are reported, with the price steady at $35 east, and $36,25 at Chicago. Bar iron is firm at 2 cents and confidence in the inture is in all branches of the iron and steel business undiminished. A larger demand for copper has enabled the syndicate to advance lake to 14½, with sales of 75,000 pounds, but lead is quiet at $3.57, and tin has been depressed at London by speculative realizing, being quoted at 21 cents here.

In the speculative markets there has been little change, except in corn, which has dropped 2½ cents, with sales of 11,000,000 bushels. Coffee a quarter higher, with sales of only 160,000 bags, and cotton steady, with small sales, though exports again exceed those of the corresponding week last year, and receipts are nearly the same. The belief in a very large yield grows stronger, but also the faith in a relaxation is not to be expected now until after January disbursements. These are expected to give at least temporary eass. November exports, according to official reports just completed, exceed imports by the unprecedented sum of $34,653,716 and at New York in December exports show a decrease of 5.1 per cent, while imports increase 22 per cent, but even at this rate the excess of exports for the whole country would be over$10,000,000. The treasury is so conducted as to sustain the money market as easy as practicable and $3,200,000 has been paid out in excess of receipts this week, but the movement of $70.000,000 cash from the treasury and banks to the west and south since August 1st makes the present stringency by no means surprising.

He was then in the Seventy dirst New York Volunteers, with Stellage befords. teers, with Sickles's brigade. He was carried to the rear and then brought back to this city in a hos-pital ship, and lay in the New York hospital from

He re-covered after a few years and joined the police force of this city in July, 1875. He did patrol duty in the precinct until the year President Garfield was shot, when the old wound began to give him trouble again. The Brazilian Minister Receives a Letter from Home. Washington, December 27.—Senor Valente, Brazilian minister, has received a cablegram from Ruy Burboza, minister of finance of the provisional government of Brazil, dated Rio Janeiro, December 27th, of which the following in the translation:

NO MONARCHY FOR THEM.

provisional government of Brazil, dated Rio Janeiro, December 27th, of which the following is the translation:

Ex-Fremier Ouro-Freto has been banished on account of sets of complicacy on the part of his followers. The imparial family, because of their having chauged their attitude taken here from acquiescence to encouragement of pretensions of a reaction, and making this the cause of the throne, were deprived of the civil list and subsidy. The provisional government maintained the civil list as an ac mere tolerance, unheard of in any other revolutio. In added to this a subsidy of $2,500,000. The emperor accepted both here, but on his arrival in Europe, under advice of disastrous counsellors who had brought about the fall of the monarchy, refused the subsidy, because it was an act of revolution, but accepted the civil list as a right based upon law. In view of this denial of the legitimacy of the revolution which has been sanctioned by the whole country, our measure cutting off the civil list and subsidy was an act of mere common sense. These measures have here met with general support. Let Europe reflect upon her revolutions, effected at the expense of floods of blood and great financial disasters. We have accomplished ours without one drop of blood and the her revolutions, effected at the expense of floods of blood and great financial disasters. We have accomplished ours without one drop of blood and the least financial trouble. Whoever thus conducts himself in the most trying moments must be able to manage his affairs with sufficient discretion and judgment. We shall continue to respect all. rights, maintaing tribunals, organize an administration, observe all contracts and keep up the budget; but any attempt legainst public order will be repressed with implacable severity. Commerce, agitculture and the working classes call upon us to assume this attitude, and we shall hand over to the constitutional convention a republic intact, and those who believe that this convention is called to decide between a republic and monarchy, are mistaken; A monarchy is out of the question. The constitutional convention will only have to organize the republic. There is no more monarchy part here. The European press should not be misled by newsmongers whose machinations are Lere objects, either of amazement or derision. These mistakes of the press foment here schemes of disturbances, but the dilemna now is simply, republic or anarchy."

THE BARROOM DEMOLISHED. A Crowd of Young White Men as Regu-

NASHVILLE, Tenn., December 27 .- [Special. Late last night a crowd of young white men, living in the vicinity of the scene of the Christmas morning riot, on the Lebauon pike, repaired to Ton Taylor's saloon, and, without the slightest ceremo ny, demolished the front end of the establishment Rocks, bricks and clubs smashed the window panes and sash, as well as the show cases and glassware. and sash, as well as the show cases and glassware. While these officious young regulators were conducting their work of demolition several of their friends were stationed around the negro church, just across the pike, and would allow none of the startled worsh ippers to come out till the saloon had been completely wrecked. The parties who participated in the outrage were masked, but no one seemed willing to admit that they recognized any of them. Their friends say their action was only to convince the negroes that their threats and preparations did not intimidate them. The death of Eli Cox this morning did much to intensify feeling on the part of the blacks, and several of his kinsmen have boldly proclaimed that his murderer had to be brought to justice, or his race would administer the punishment the crime deserved. All the other injured are doing well, except a negro by the name of Gibson, who is suffering from several slugs from a shotgun.

A New Road to the West Probable CHARLESTON, S. C., December 23.—[Special.]—At a meeting of the Merchant's exchang today, Receiver Chamberlain of the South Car today, Receiver Chamberlain of the South Caro lina railway, came in for a general rasping. [One of the speakers declared that Chamberlain's object in his address before the committee of the chamber of commerce, a day or two ago in which he ad-vised the local capitalists to get control of the sec-ond mortgage bonds of the railroad, was to get the best price he could for the railroad. Sentiment seemed to be in favor of organizing a construction company and building a new road to the west.

John H. Johnson, a Cochran Blacksmith, Comes to a Horrible Death—The General News of Macon. Macon, Ga., December 27 .- [Special.]-Mr.

John H, Johnson, a blacksmith of (Cochran met a terrible death either last might or this norn-ing. Today about ten o'clock two young men, Frank Wright and Gus Johnson, found the dead body of John Johnson lying near the side of the trestle, about half a mile from the East Tennessee railroad bridge, ever the Ocmulgee river, four miles from Macon-The body was partly SUBMERGED BY WATER by a train and hurled to his death.

His hat was lying some distance from the body, and his new pair of shoes was also lying a little way off from the corpse. The idea with some is that the shoes hurt Johnson's feet, and he pulled them off when crossing the trestle, or he was afraid to walk the trestle with his shoes on.

The investigation by the coroner's jury tended to show that Johnson fell off the train while en route to Cochran on the early morning train, and in falling the train ran over him and mashed him to death, and the body fell through the, trestle to the ground beneath. Johnson had in his pocket a ticket body fell through the trestle to the ground beneath. Johnson had in his pocket a ticket to Cochran and ninety-one dollars. The body will be shipped to Cochran in the morning. Johnson was about forty-five years old and well dressed.

His Elopement With Miss Cheney, and the Story He Told-How the Facts Came Out -A Smooth Rascal.

NEWNAN, Ga., December 27 .- [Special.] | The special from Breman in today's Constitution about the arrest of Mr. Charles Hoffee in that town for bigamy, committed here last June, when he was married to Miss May, the accomplished daughter of Dr. Cheney, of Breman, really recalls some very interesting and thrilling incidents connected with his

MOST BEAUTIFUL GIRLS that ever came to this town, who also had no baggage, not even a linen duster. On their arrival on the evening Carrollton train, he went to the Commercial hotel, where he registered the name of Chas. T. Hoffee and wife, Chattanooga, Tennessee. He formed an alliance with the porter for fifty cents, took him Into his confidence, and had him to conduct him to the ordinary's office, where he pro-cured license for him and Miss Cheney, representing that they were both from Cleveland, and that there were no objections to the match on the part of her family. He stated

HIS OWN FAMILY OBJECTED because of the wide difference in wealth be-tween the two families, but that he was twenty-one years of age and able to paddle his own canoe. His porter ally took him in charge again, and reconducted him where supper was served. Afterwards his faithful porter piloted him to Dr. Stacey's residence, where the ceremony was performed in the presence of Captain Tom Jones and the family. Hoffee told the minister that they were both from Cleveland on a tour through the south and had decided to "HEIGHTEN THE PLEASURES" of the trip by getting married. On being interrogated by one of the witnesses to the ceremony, the young lady developed absolute ignorance of the beauty and character of Euclid avenue, on which they claimed to reside. He enjoined secrecy on both the ordinary and minister, for the reason that he desired no publicity given to the matter. A lit-tle disagreement between the newly married couple, linked with suspicious proceedings on his part, culminated in a visit to the bridal chamber by the city marshal for investigation, and surprise and fear shocked the groom, and he inquired the cause, and asked if any telegrams had been received and where from.

HE EXTRICATED HIMSELF from the difficulty by telling of his marriage by Dr. Stacey, to whom he referred the marshal. Next morning, full of indignation, he attempted to bulldoze the town, and especially your correspondent, but subsequently reversed his tactics, sought his friendship, and solicited non-publicity of the marriage, giving as his reason that his wife, Miss May Cheney, was in school at Shorter college, at Rome, Georgia, and desired to finish her education. He stated to me that he had taken the hasty steps in getting married on account of the rivalry of Colonel J. D. Williamson, president of the Chattanooga, Rome and Columbus railroad, and a lawyer of Cedartown, whose CHANCES FOR TAKING THE LEAD were considered highly formidable. He exhibited letters from different parties in Cleveland, showing that he was the son of a millionaire, and that he had invested extensively in southern enterprises, but his card of introduction bore the name in the corner of a clothing store in Chattanooga, for which he was traveling. He said that his connection therewith would enable him to see more of the south, and make other judicious investments. The names attached to his letters of introduction from Cleveland were fictitiousno such parties or places could be found in

AMONG THE MOONSHINERS

SHORT STORIES CONCERNING THE WAY THEY SPENT CHRISTMAS.

The Work of Rev. Francis Joseph Among the Criminals—John Coffee's Christmas
—A Real Live Distillery in Operation.

Perhaps no man in Atlanta has a bigger heart, or broader sympathy for the woes of his fellows than Rev. Francis Joseph.
You don't know him? Well, he is only an humble colored man, a simple and unpresuming relic of the days that are gone. Before Lincoln's proclamation he was a faithful slave to his master.

Since the proclamation he has been a servant of God, and his zeal and fidelity to the cause of his Master have never been questioned None but himself knows the weary miles that he has tramped, footsore and weary, in that he has tramped, footsore and weary, in the discharge of his self-imposed task of carrying Christian comfort to those who would otherwise be deprived of any such enjoyment. In his modest cabin home in the outskirts this dark-faced man of God grows a few vegetables and other "truck." which help to feed him, and every Sunday he stands within the walls of either the city, county or state prisons, and preaches to the hardened criminals who are confined therein.

HOW HE SPENT CHRISTMAS.

When Christmas bells were ringing, and

When Christmas bells were ringing, and everybody else was at home, or out on the streets, enjoying the holiday season, this man streets, enjoying the holiday season, this man remembered "those that are in prison," and not content with invoking a formal prayer for these heaven orphaned souls, he went himself and stood in the midst of that rictous throng in Fulton county jail, detinating the good tidings of that himself and stood in the midst of that riotous throng in Fulton county jail, delivering the good tidings of joy that was heralded by angel bands on that same holy day eighteen centuries agone. He was with the moonshiners in jail.

It was a solemn scene, and those who witnessed it will long remember the occasion in its picturesque pathos.

They will HELP HIM.

It is said that before the holidays are over a number of prominent ministers of Atlanta will present Rev. Francis Joseph with a horse.

will present Rev. Francis Joseph with a horse.

Among themselves they are going to chip in and purchase a good, serviceable animal, that will bear the evangelist of the bondsmen to and fro on his errands of charity and consolation. Not a more appropriate gift could be given than that, for surely if any man truly deserves recognition for his services, this humble servant of Jesus is the man.

It is standard.

It is strange to those who do not know him, just how much his preaching influences the prisoners for good. But his happy spirit, genial nature and sunshiny disposition, coupled pled with his unassuming ways, captivates them, and there is no question but that for his teachings many of them would be more unruly than they are.

JOHN COFFEE'S CELLA One of the most quiet and easily managed prisoners in Fulton county jail is John Coffee, the brawny mountaineer, who has been there

Christmas he was remembered most generously by friends outside the jail, who sympathized with him in his confinement.

eral Master Workman P. wderly, or threatened arrest, just after he left Atlanta, at the close of the national convention here. The news comes from Pennsylvania, the home of Powderly:

Schanton, Pa., becember 22.—Mr. Powderly has decided to adobt the policy of hunting the hunter, and has instructed his atterneys. Messrs, O'Brien and Kelley, of Scranton, to begin proceedings at once against vs. Representative Edward Callaghan, of Scottdate, Westmoreland county, who has been threatening the general master workman with arrest for more than a mon.h.

Constable Washabaugh arrived here today from Greensburg uistice at the instance of Callaghan, and when Washabaugh took it to Alderman Fuller to his indorsement, so that he might take Powderly into custody at once, that official refused to give it his approval on the ground that it was defective, since it alleged no crime of a specific nature, but merely charged the general master workman with "consistracy."

Alderman Fuller pointed out to the Vidocq from Greensburg pitage that conspiracy per se was not a crime, since men might conspiracy per se was not a crime, since men might conspiracy per se was not a crime, since men might conspiracy per se was not a crime, since men might conspiracy per se was not a trime, since men might conspiracy per se was not a trime, an arrest with such a worthless paper. The constable was crestialien, and he immediately left town without calling on Powderly, Intending to secure another warrant and come back as soon as possible. This will take some time, as Greensburg is a considerable distance from here.

In the meantime the necessary legal machinery for the prosecution of Callaghan on a charge of conspiracy and libel will be pulsed with all possible specific and the propose to put a stop to their annoying antics. He thinks Callaghan a good subject to begin with.

Mr. Charles D. Ford Dead. Yesterday, near 12 o'clock, Mr. Charles D. Ford, formerly a prominent dealer in fruits and fancy groceties on Peachtree street, passed away.

Mr. Ford was only twenty-seven years of age when he was stricken with consumption. He tried every climate, from Canada to the semi-tropics, but nothing did him any good. For seven or eight months he bore up like a hero, but his condition finally became such that he was forced to give up business. Since the summer hehas been pretty closely confined to his home on Luckie street, with his young wife and little baby boy.

Mr. Ford was the son of Mr. Al. Ford, whose tragic death occurred last summer in a runaway on Marietta street, Mr. Charles Ford being with him in the delivery wagon at the time of the fatal accident. He was born at Ripon, Wis., and came to Atlanta in 1876. Yesterday, near 12 o'clock, Mr. Charles D.

The funeral announcement appears in another column.

W. H. Mehaffey, an old colored employe of the Western and Atlantic railroad, had his leg hadly hurt while loading freight on a car yesterday His leg was caught between a car and the platform, and he had to be removed to the office of Dr. Westmoreland on a litter. His leg was badlf fractured, and after being attended to by Dr. Westmoreland he was sent to bis home in the city ambulance.

The Clothes Pin is the finishing touch in washing. A fine piece of linen is hung over the line; the clothes pin is jammed down to hold it; the wind blows and a constant wrenching is going on until the article is taken down. A hole appears where the clothes pin was. It is difficult to see how you are going to get rid of the clothes pin; but there are things which make more holes than clothes pins; for instance, the rubbing up and down on a boarda necessity when an article is washed with common soap—will rub more holes into fine clothes or coarse, than can ever be charged to clothes pins. There is a way out of this dilemma,

Use Pearline.

You do not have to rub your clothes; soak them, boil them, rinse them, and the job is done. They will be cleaner, sweeter, whiter in half the time; colors will be brighter, flannels softer, and you have gotten rid of half the labor.

PEARLINE costs no more than common soap. Millions of women are using it. Five cents will buy enough PEARLINE to prove to you that every word we say is true, and if true, a great many times five cents would be cheap for it.

SALESMAN—Yes, this is the stove you inquired for. As you say, it does not look exactly like the one your mother recommended you to buy, and which she thinks so much of, but it is a Charter Oak Range. We have the Cook Stoves of the same make but the Ranges are used more generally now, as they are more convenient. How long has your mother had her stove? Young Markied Lady—Oh! ever so long. She bought it when I was a baby, and has been using it ever since, and she told me I must get the same kind.

SALESMAN—Well, this is the same kind. That is, it is a Charter Oak, but you must remember that twenty years is a long time, and improvements have been made since your mother got hers. This Range has the wonderful Wire Gauze Oven Boor, which you have probably heard of, as it is known and sold everywhere in connection with our Stoves and Ranges.

Young Markied Lady—Oh! I remember now. She spoke about that, but I can't understand why that should make it so much better than our old stove, as that was as good as it could be.

SALESMAN—There is no doubt about its being much better; it is a wonderful improvement. It bakes everything so much nicer, and the meats are not dried up like they are in the old fashioned tight ovens. Why, a steak can be broiled in that oven as perfectly as over a charcoal fire, and the natural juices of the meat, which make it so appetizing, will all be retained. It is just the same with roast meats. Of course it is needless for me to speak of its other good qualities, as your mother's advice has made that unnecessary.

Young Markied Lady—Well, of course, I will take it. Please have it put up as soon as you can, as we have no stove yet. We are just commencing housekeeping, you know.

A Vexed Question.

Will next Wednesday be the beginning of a new decade?

Popular usage has settled it that way, but mathematicians say each decade begins with the year one, and that we must count from 1891 and not from 1890.

This question has been agitated for hundreds of years. At the opening of this century Napoleon asked Lalande to settle the matter, and the famous astronomer took the position that the century and its first decade began with the year 1801. Still, some of the greatest minds have differed, and continue to differ in regard to this point. A thoughtful writer in the Cincinnati Commercial-Gazette says:

The practice of dating events from the birth of Christ is said to have been first employed by Dionysius Exiguns (the Little), a Roman mouk, who flourished about 527. It has been established by later and more accurate calculators that Dionysius placed his initial date four or five years too inte. We are really living, therefore, in 1893 or 1894. Moreover, the month of the advent is a matter of grave uncertainty. Christmas was not settled upon until the fourth century, and was then adopted, in part at least, that Mithrale and other heathen anniversaries might be Christianized and become orthodox, instead of heathenish influences. We believe that the majority of scholars incline to fix the Savior's birth in April. We begin our years with January 1; which corresponds neither with December 25 nor with March 25, a period which formerly competed with the January date.

These facts do not directly bear on the question whether the name 1889, a cardinal number in speech, is an ordinal number in reality, but they do show a confusion and an absence of predetermined usage, which weakens the positiveness of the asser tion that the date of Christ's birth was the year one, and that consequently the second century began with one hundred and one. The claims of the conflicting views must be settled by fixed and universal usage. There is no real sacrifice of mathematical truth in making the Christian era a zero point instead of the opening of an ordinal unit, and by so doing the centuries would change with their figures. It certainly requires some thought and a little effort to make 1900 an equivalent of the eighteens which precede, rather than of the nine-teens which follow it. We have great respect for Lalande's judgment, but certainly enough can be adduced on the other side to justify a re-examination of the entire question.

Eighties will probably give place to nineties without much comment, but as sure as fate, the dawn of 1900 will fill the papers with repetitions of ents urged with such energy and heat in 1800 50 by the great-grandfathers, grandfathers and fathers of the coming combatants. Here, as in many other departments, an ounce of prevention may be found worth a pound of cure. The more obvious features of the case do not settle it, and, as we have shown, there is still abundant room for the investigation of chronological experts.

Leaving the main features of the controversy out of sight, it is somewhat provoking to be forced to the conclusion that we are four or five years behind the times, and should even now be dating our letters 1893 or 1894. Be that as it may, next Wednesday will see us rushing into the 'Nineties with all the hurry and worry so characteristic of our feverish and rapid American

A Green Christmas.

It is a common saying that "a green Christmas makes a fat graveyard."

In old times there was a good deal of truth in this declaration, and especially in England where the climatic and sanitary conditions were peculiarly unfavorable during such unseasonable weather. We have brought the English dread of a green Christmas with us to this country, but past experience should convince us that a warm spell of weather at the close of the year does not necessarily mean a largely increased death-

But it cannot be denied that a warm winter makes extra work for the sanitary authorities, and causes prudent persons to be more than usually cautious about exposing themselves, and running into excesses Such weather as this, a century or so ago, would have made some sort of an epidemic a positive certainty. If we entirely escape one now, or suffer only a light visitation, our good fortune must in a very large measure be attributed to the progress of sanitary

Here in the south there is danger that the winter will fail to kill the germs of disease left over from last summer. This danger, however, may be reduced to a minimum by taking the proper steps to have everything in order before the coming of spring. Our sanitary work should not be delayed if we would escape epidemics of smallpox and fever. And even with the best of precautions it is to be feared that the health of the country at large during this phenomenal weather will not make a very encouraging exhibit when we come to sum up the results.

Is It the Gulf Stream?

The remarkable weather the country has experienced during the past month has attracted the attention of the learned and the unlearned. The ignorant have just as many theories and explanations as the scientists, and these theories are entitled to just as much confidence as those that are held in the weather bureau, where all sorts of delicate instruments are depended on to furnish data for forecasts.

These instruments, delicate as they are, do not explain how it is that peach and plum trees are in bloom in the latitude of Atlanta during the last days of December, nor why the violets, the hyacinths and the buttercups have taken the place of the chrysanthemum.

In accounting for these things the learned have no advantage of the unlearned, for all are alike ignorant of the mighty forces that have changed winter into spring.

An old sailor, who has been keeping his eyes open on all his voyages, informs the Washington Post that the secret of the changes of which we seem to be reaping the benefit just now, is the result of a change in the gulf stream, that remarkable ocean river that has been regarded with superstitious awe by mariners, and with eager inter-

The old saflor who has been giving his is now running one hundred miles nearer the eastern shore of the continent than it was one year ago. Whether this change is due to some ocean upheaval-some convulsion following or accompanying the trembling of the earth at Charleston it is difficult to say, but the old sailor says that the nearer approach of the gulf stream to the Atlantic shore is a fact well-known to observant mariners.

This will be good news to coal-dealers, if true, for it will prevent such complications of purchase and transportation as those which were advertised in THE CONSTITU TION last fall. If the gulf stream is so near, there is no reason why the coal merchants shouldn't join the general public in warming themselves in its genial influence.

We welcome the gulf stream to our shores. It is a healthier inspiration than the base burning stove.

Not So Bad.

The Christmas lawlessness in the south is to be deplored, but it might have been much worse without beating the record of some years.

As might have been expected, whisky was responsible for it all. Naturally, when a riot occurs in a community composed of two races the whites will be found on one side and the blacks on the other. Still, such collisions are possible without a purpose, and without a design. Wherever there is a crowd of idle people, and liquor is turned loose there is danger of trouble. During the past twenty years we have had bloodler conflicts than those reported during the present week.

It is not straining a point to say that the outlook is bright. Barring a few sporadic outbreaks the situation is peaceful.

Statesmanship Needed. The Chicago Tribune is amazed because the southern people and newspapers will not readily accept and swallow every remedy that is proposed for the race problem at the south, and Editor Medill, discussing the matter in a not unfriendly way, gets himself into quite a stew.

As in the matter of alfalfa, Editor Medill doesn't believe in half-way measures in providing a remedy for the race problem. He is a philanthropist who wants to engraft his benefactions on the public at the point of the bayonet. A few years ago he was in favor of employing the army to compel the farmers of the south to plant alfalfa, and now he wants the negroes picked up and carried off to Hayti.

It is clear that he is thoroughly in earnest in supposing that he has discovered a remedy for the race problem, as he was in believing that lucerne, instead of Bermuda grass, was to be the salvation of the southern farmers. Naturally, therefore, he is somewhat indignant because the south doesn't jump at his Haytien proposition and swallow it whole.

Editor Medill is a very wise and a very successful editor. He is a man of experience, and his intentions are good, though they would be better if he could look a little beyond the lines of partisanship and give the southern people the credit of their motives and desires. But, old as he is, he ought to bear in mind the fact that the solution of the negro problem is a much more important matter to the south than it can ever be to a northern man who is capable of viewing matters only through the spectacles of a party. To make a party question of the race problem is to give the whole matter over to confusion, irritation, wrangling and strife. It is a problem that is important enough to both races to attract the attention of that larger statesmanship that knows no sectional lines and no sectional prejudice. Ir is said that Speaker Reid smiles only when he is very angry. If he is a genuine prohibition republican, he probably most of his smiling at Vice-President Morton's

IT IS COLD ENOUGH in Kansas for the farmers to use corn for fuel.

A FEW precocious peachtrees are in full bloom in Atlanta, and some of the more sensitive shrubs are full of buds. The season is a remarkable one for poets and coal dealers.

THE Kangaroo ballot system that suppresses democratic majority in Boston ought to sat isfy the average reformer. EDITORIAL COMMENT.

LET US CUT the Christmas holidays short his year and settle down to business.

WILL THIS YEAR be known in history as the ear without a winter? THE FOLLOWING PARAGRAPH from the Jack-souville Times Union is full of sad interest: "An exchange says Senator Jones, now in Detroit, suspects his friends are trying to influence him to return to his Florida home in order to get him out of the way, and wonders whether the ex-senator is not insane. No doubt of it. The person who sus-pects his own family in that way is either a lunatic or the most morally debased person living. It is a hard alternative, but the poor unfortunate man's family would of course prefer to think him fast on the way to an asylum for the insane. Senator Jones's case is a very sad one.

A PHILADZLPHIA CORRESPONDENT Says: 'The firm of saw manufacture s of which Mr. Hamilton Disston is the head, distributed among its employes on the day before Christmas gifts amounting to $17,000, and it is estimated that during the last eleven years the firm has distributed $150,000 in a similar manner. While not many employers have been so liberal to their employes as the Disstons have been, there are enough others of a similar dis-position in the country to demonstrate that the re-lations between employed and employer need not be those of antagonism. It is usually found in establishments where the proprietors and workmen feel a friendly interest in each other's welfare that the employes remain in the same place from boynood to old age, and it is noteworthy too. that it is these same establishments which are distinguished for the excellence of their products."

The Location of the Monument ...

The Location of the Monument ... 1 00 EDITORS CONSTITUTION: The fund with which to erect a 'handsome marble monument to the memory of Henry W. Grady will soon be raised, and this being so, the matter of its location is now being discussed. Oakland and West View cemeteries have both been mentioned as suitable places for the erection of this shaft. But, in my opinion, the most appropriate place for the monument is on the statchouse square, at the corner of Hunter and Washington streets. Mr. Grady was identified with every interest of the state, looking to its advancement, and a more fitting location, in my opinion, could not be selected.

From Murat Halstead. Some of the numerous telegrams of condo ence received since Mr. Grady's death, were nadvertently mislaid, and among them was the following from Hon. Murat Halstead, editor of the Cincinnati Commercial Gazette: Cincinnati Commercial Gazette:
Cincinnati, December 24.—Mrs, H. W. Grady: I desire to inscribe my name among those who feel the public misfortune of Mr. Grady's Geath as a personal loss, and hope you may know how true it is that there are no boundaries to sincere regrets and earnost sympathies. MURAT HALSTEAD.

From a Republican. Mr. John W. Hoffman, a leading citizen and prominent republican of Philadelphia, writes as follows to Mr. Julius L. Brown:

JULIUS L. BROWN, ESQ.: I feel that I would like your father, yourself and other friends in Atlanta to ieel that the news over the wires today announcing the death of Mr. Grady, excited the strongest sympathy and regret here; particularly among those who, like myself, are acquainted in the community of which he was so honored a member.
I feel that the artificial webs which politicians are endeavoring to weave, separating the sections of this country, are soon to be swept away, and that almost the last, indeed the last, public utterances of Mr. Grady, in Foston, secunded the lay marked him among coming men. Sincerely, your friend,
John W. Hoffman. as follows to Mr. Julius L. Brown:

From Hon, W. J. Northen. SPARTA, Ga., December 25.—Hon. E. P. Howell—My Dear Sir. 1 have been upon my farm for some days, and the dreadful news of the death of Heury Grady has just reached me. Never in my life have I been more shocked. His death is a public calamity, as it comes in the midst of his usefulness and unusual power. Georgia and the south could spare any other man better than Henry

Grady.
Tender to his strickn wife my deepest sympathy.
Truly, etc., W. J. Northen.
Mr. W. W. J. Warren, a well known New York manufacturer writes to Mr. J. S. Pan

"I am deeply pained to hear of the sudden death of Hon. Henry W, Grady. It was only a week or two since that I was in Boston, and although I did not have the pleasure of hearing Mr. Grady speak, I read the whole of his able and brilliant oration, with delight. I had looked forward to the time when I might have the pleasure of listening to his matchless eloquence, now stienced forever. What a loss to your thriving city and state: yes, and to the nation! It is hard to understand why so fruitful alife, just opening to still larger usesulness, should be so suddenly terminated; but Mr. Grady has accomplished more in a few short years than many in olished more in a few short years than many in

The south may well be proud of her brilliant son and we of the north are proud, too, for he belonged to us also as part of this great nation."

To Captain E. P. Howell: To Captain E. P. Howell: Daiton mourns with Atlanta in the death of that noble son of Georgia, Henry W. Grady. A nobler Christian gentieman never lived. As a journalist he stood without a peer. As an orator he was matchiess, sublime, irreproachable. Well may Georgia mourn. Her loss is irreparable. There is no one to take the place of Henry Grady; and though he is dead he will ever live in the hearts of the

Mr. J. B. Rountree, in a partial Atlanta, says of Mr. Grady:

A Tribute From Virginia. On Mr. Grady's funeral day Mr. A. H. Davis, of Atlanta, received a telegram from Professor Wm. M. Thornton, chairman of the University of Virginia, authorizing the presentation of a wreath for Mr. Grady in behalf of the university. It will be remembeneal of the university. It will be remembered that Mr. Grady was a student at the university, and at the last commencement, delivered the oration before the literary societies. His loss is keenly felt and most deeply regretted at the scene of one of his last great efforts.

The Norfolk (Va.) Landmark has this to say about Mr. Grady's death:

The country has lost one of its most promising men. The south one of its strongest sons, and Georgia her brightest intellect. Grady was a warmhearted man with great energy and a luminous mind; he was a splendid citizen and a bright ornament to his profession, which has so many shining ones. His laurels were won where intellectual competition is greatest where nothing but genuine talents can ever pass muster or get beyond the point of mere mention. The Boston speech places Mr. Grady, as preivous efforts had done, high among the best American orators past and precent, and his untimely death has now clothed his just fame with the new raiment of human sympathy and affection. Atlanta will now build two monuments instead of one—Jellerson Davwand Henry W.Grady—the former a hero of war and the latter a winner of victories no less renowned—the victories of peace The Norfolk (Va.) Landmark has this to

An Alabama Admirer. CROPWELL, St. Clair county, Ala., December 25th, 1882.—Hon. W. A. Hempfill, Atlanta, Ga.: Our entire community, with saddened hearis, join you in mourning the loss of our illustrious Grady. With few exceptions we are all Georgians, and was proud of, and loved, Grady and THE CONSTITUTION. Rear a monument in memory of him and allow us an opportunity of aiding in the noble work. Truly,

A Good Suggestion. A Good Suggestion.

Captain E. P. Howell: Ever since Monday morning Henry Grady has not been out of my mind: consequently, it has been the subject of conversation with whomsoever I came in contact. It just so happened that today I had the opportunity of meeting quite a number of our cliszens, amongst them some of the most influential and wealthy, and the idea was brought forth that in connection with the monument, it would be a fitting tribute to the memory of our beloved friend, Henry Grady, to get up a fund for a hospital (non sectarian) for the city of Atlanta, to be called the Henry W. Grady hospital. This would be a benefit to Atlanta, and in a line with Henry Grady today.

This would be a monument that would live foreyer. Now as for tib means. These gentlemen say they are ready to double and triple their subscriptions' even more. One man that subscribed $25 says: "For a hospital I am ready to give a thousand dollara." Others, $500, etc., etc. We can buy a large lot, and build thereon for the present a twenty-five thousand dollar building, and leave it in a condition to add thereto when completed. I am sure the eity government will take charge of it and maintain it. Everything is ripe for this move, and now is the proper time. Every good citizen, especially those that employ hands, have advocated it for years. Our city government cannot build one in years to come; therefore, what an opportune itme this would be, a monument living, as it were, forever. Think of this, Captain Howell; and if worthy, bring tright now before the nublic. I am sure there will not be the least trouble to rake the funds. Go at it like our beloved Henry Grady would were he alive, and you will certainly meet with success.

An Adminer of Henry W. Grady.

A Northern Man's Tribute.

A Northern Man's Tribute. SHERWOOD, Tenu., December 26 .- To Mayor Glenn: As a northen man (but a resident now, and through life of the sunny south) I wish to say emphatically, that outside of vile politicians, I don't believe there is an iteligent man north of Mason and Dixon's line that does not revere the name of Henry W. Grady. No section can claim such a man. He was an American of the grandest type. Very respectfully, V. Fell.

A Befriended Showman SENDS A TRIBUTE TO THE MAN WHO TIDED HIM THROUGH TROUBLE.

None were exempt from his kindness. Peo ple of all classes were sharers in his benefactions.

Several months ago Mr. Grady came to the relief of a man whom he had never seen before. The Sells show was exhibiting in Atlanta, and just before the performance, and at the mo ment when ten thousand people were waiting for the commencement of the show, an attachnent was served, and the performance prevented.

In the audience sat Mr. Grady, amid his family and a group of school girls, who were enjoying the holiday with him. The rumor of the trouble reached his ear, and in a moment he was at the sheriff's side signing the bond, allowing the performance to proceed.

Mr. Sells was deeply grateful for the kindness, as in no other way could the entertainment proceed. He would have lost a great deal of money, and thousands of people have been disappointed. Yesterday Judge G. H. Tanner, clerk of the superior court, received the following letter from Mr. Peter Sells, which pays a pretty tribute to his dead benefactor: Columbus, O., December 23.-Clerk of County Court: Dear sir—The day our circus was in Atlanta a suit was brought against us and an at-tachment levied which the lamented Henry W. Grady released by giving bond. We have mislayed the summons and forgotten the name of the plain tiff. Would you please send me the name of the plaintiff and the time set for trial? In the death of Henry W. Grady the south loses one of the most brilliant men the world has ever known. His elo-quence, logic and granduer were everywhere the theme of thinking men. He was loyal to the traditions and history of his native sunny south, ve progressive and free from prejudice. It is a pit that he should be called away just as he was en tering upon a career that would have placed his name high up among those of the great men of the

The writer was proud to have been honored with his acquaintance and in his death feels that he has lost a friend and his countrymen a patriot who would have carved his name among those of the heroes of peace, Yours truly, P. Skll. S. For Sells Bros.

From Mr. J. S. Lester. Mr. J. S. Lester, in a letter of eulogy on Mr. Grady, says: "Grady's career should remind us that we can all make our lives worth living, is we only leave the past behind us and live for the present, the future and for heaven."

THE BANQUET POSTPONED.

The Chamber of Commerce Do This as Mark of Respect for Mr. Grady. The banquet of the chamber of commerce has been postponed to February 13, as a mark of respect to Mr. Grady.

This action was taken yesterday.

President Oriesby men with littee, committee on speakers and the invitation

President Oglesby called attention to the fact that a number of invitations had been issued prior to Mr. Grady's death, and that quite a number had accepted. All arrangements had been made, but as soon as Mr. Grady died they had discontinued together for an expression of opinion as to wha hould be done.

It was unanimously decided then to postpone the Ennoyet to the date named. All that have accepted invitations to be present will be notified at once of the change made, and of the reason for making it. Mr. Grady had outlined the plan for the banquet and made a number of arrangements. He practi-cally completed the programme while on his visit to New York and Boston. The programme, just as he left it, will be carried out-the only change being in the date.

The Sunday school children of the Church of our Father were given a Christmas tree last evening, and the occasion was made one of such pleasure to them that, no matter how many other trees they may live to see, the one of 1889 will always stand out in their memories as being above all others, enjoyable.

All the chairs were removed, from the floor of the church and the tree was placed in the middle. Lighted by hundreds of endles and festooned with garlands of tinsel, and colored strings of pop corn the effect was very beautiful. The scene was greatly added to by the decorations of the church. Up each beam branches of holly were twined to the point where the ratters met. Over the chancel was a design made of holly and pine boughs and below the gailery branches of cedar (emblematic of the grief which this year mingles with the Joys of Christmas tide) were gracefully arranged.

Rev. Mr. Cheney, the rector, and Mrs. Cheney saw to it that not one of the little children were neglected, and the enjoyment of all was complete.

He said he made the presentation in the name of the teachers and the scholars of the school which Mr. White had helped to found, and all of whom loved and respected him.

Mr. White was taken completely by surprise. He managed, however, to give thanks in a charming way which delighted the children. After the presentation cach child received a Christmas gift, and also a bag of sweetmeats. They all returned to their homes happy and contented.

the novelty of the production. She made up the char actor in accord with the stage traditions, and was disappointing in that she made quite a manly man. Her performance was a praiseworthy one in many respects, but it is hardly one which will win either fame or admiration to this capable artiste. His was a thoroughly capable and conscientious performance—not great, possibly, but there is time yet; but it was enjoyable—to hear him talk in that. SHE SAW A BULL FIGHT. A Baltimore Girl Tells How the Spectacle

Impressed Her.

A Baltimore girl, who faints at the sight of

A Baltimore girl, who faints at the sight of a caterpillar, turus green at the flow of blood, and is in every way of a most gentle and kindly nature, thus writes home about her visit to a bull fight—the occasion being the farewell to Paris of the prince of matadors, Louis Mazzantini:

"At last I have seen my first bull fight, and I trust my last. You could not have borne tifve minutes, and I scarcely know how I did. "Imagine an immense arena, with 22,000 people packed in circles, while above innocent little white clouds floated over an intensely blue sky. At times the tender-hearted clouds shut the sky entirely off from all view of what was going on beneath in the arena, while frequent short April-like showers of tears (?) fell from them, and it is to be hoped soothed the wounds of the six enraged bulls that succeeded each other to death. The occasion was Mazzantini's farewell to his Parisian public, which has made such a hero of him. Not only had fatted calves been killed in his honor in appreciation of the fatted bulls which Mazzantini had killed with such glory, but hats and handkerchiefs waved, presents of silver, of gold, and jewels were thrown to him after his little speech of farewell, and flowers, in forms of wreaths, bouquets, and hearts, soon covered the gore-stained ground. Of all these gifts the only one this Spanish grandee noticed at all was a simple bunch of violets. This he stooped to pick up, and kissed in the direction of the fair dame who had thrown it. His two valets raised the more valuable gifts from the dust, while Mazzantini himself never defined to even glance at the rich jewels scattered at his feet.

"It was a wonderful sight, exciting past belief. I am glad to have seen it, for I learned something, but the one lesson completes the course. I'll see no more bull fights. The orchestra played the music of 'Carmen' as we came out, and I stopped to study the faces of the audience that but a few minutes before were in such astropes of excitement shouting chestra played the music of 'Carmen' as we came out, and I stopped to study the faces of the audience that but a few minutes before were in such extremes of excitement, shouting and hissing when the poor bull, terrified and smarting, tried to save himself instead of showing the proper amount of fight, and remembered that I, too, at the moment had riseated the proper amount of the prop smarting, tried to save himself instead of showing the proper amount of fight, and remembered that I, too, at the moment had risen to my feet and rejoiced when a well-planted lance, which I thought was costing the picador his life, as he stood directly in front of the bull's horns, pierced the bull's shoulders just as he lowered his head to strike. Then the marvellous Mazzantini leaped over the head and stood quietly waiting until the now maddened creature turned on him with sufficient ferocity to satisfy the most exacting hisser.

"Nothing can express to you the intense artistic aspect of the performance. One has to see it to understand the science of these superb men. They walk with the dignity that princes are supposed to have in and out of the jaws of death—a leap not any higher or less calm than just enough to keep them this side of eternity. The little scarlet cloak, their only defensive weapon, and with this alone, they lead the infuriated animal to the exact spot where they wish to kill him, and then kill him, not at any haphazard moment, but only at the signal given by the president. In Paris they do not kill the bull in the arena, but when the signal to kill is given, the matador's personal danger is all the greater for not killing, as he must touch the bull in the vital spot above the head between the shoulders, just as the bull lowers his head to gore him, thus going through the form, after which the bull is taken out by oxen and killed out of sight. Each bull, which is of a very high breed, belongs to some well-know Spanish senor, and is worth a good many hundred dollars. But they say it cannot fight twice, as it must be put an end to; the honor of the family to whom it belongs is at stake by the way it fights.

"A wonderful sight, and always shall it live in my memory how the artistic superceded the human side of it in my eyes." I had to grasp the smelling salts in one hand, for you know how I turn siek at the sight of blood, and to see those poor blindfolded horses raised on the horns of the madd that turned life into a plaything. The costumes and all the mise en scene are the mest picturesque things imaginable. In fact, everything is done to make it endurable. Fierce feelings that I never imagined I had rose up and took possession of me, and I could scarcely realize my own lack of heart. For once and the last time I have seen this relic of a past barbarism, and I am glad to have had the experience."

Johnny's Revised Version.

The Boston Transcript tells this one on Little Johnny, who is having a good streak and is learning a new prayer. The other night he attempted to replace completely his own "Now I lay me" with his new 'Our Father who art in heaven." He had begun all right, and had progressed as for as "on earth as it is in heaven," when the slight. nervousness of the occasion drove the rest of prayer out of his mind. So he groped vainly: "—In heaven. Well, Lord," said Johnny, non-chalantly, "I am stuck!"

RAMIE IN THE SOUTH-

AN INVENTION THAT MAY DO MUCH TO ENCOURAGE ITS CULTURE.

The Process of Mr. Walter T. Forbes for Dissolving the Bark From the Fibre-A Quick and Economical Process. Atlanta is fast becoming famous as the birthplace of wonderful inventions.

In the last year or two a large number of valuable labor and time-saving devices have originated in the minds of Atlantians.

One of the latest inventions or discoveries is that of Mr. Walter G. Forbes, for the cheap and rapid elimination of ramie fibre from the ribbon of the plant. The process is entirely new and different from any heretofore in use, either in this or any other country. It is sinaply a process of dissolving the ribbon under pressure by the use of chemicals.

Mr. Forbes has fully tested this method and the specimens of ramie fibre produced have been examined by experts and pronounced of a high quality. In the dissolving of the bark from the fibre, by means of what Mr. Forbes calls his digestor, the fibre is not only freed entirely of all gummy and resinous substances, but the time required for the process is so comparatively short as to be in the nature of a revolution.

Under the influence of the liquid, the bark is dissolved in about three hours, leaving the fibre in its natural length and of a whiteness and softness exceeding the old and tedious hand process. Four thousand pounds can be treated at a single process by one machine.

For all manner of textile purposes the ramie fibre is one of the most valuable known. It has been used for domestic purposes in India and other eastern countries where it grows in abundance for centuries, but on account of the slow and tedious process of stripping the bark from the fibre, its general use has been greatly hampered. Up to the present, its culture has been almost unknown in this country, but within the past year its value and adaptability have attracted the attention of manufacturers and agriculturists generally, and the agricultural department at Washing-ton has taken hold of and is actively investigating the propagation of the plant.

Mr. Forbes has received letters relative to his process from parties in both Europe and this country, including one from the agricultural department, and the American Ramie company, of Philadelphia. The editorial in THE CONSTITUTION a few days ago attracted wide-spread attention to the new process, and in response to it many inquiries have been made of Mr. Forbes for a further description of his process.

made of Mr. Forbes for a further description of his process.

Patents are now pending in this and foreign countries, and as soon as they are granted, active steps will be taken to put the process in actual operation.

Of course it cannot be utilized in this country until the farmers are made aware of the value and marketable qualities of the plant. When they are assured of the golden returns the plant will yield them, it will doubtless be culivated in quantities that, with a cheap and rapid process, will revolutionize thousands of varieties of cloths and textures. It is the purpose of Mr. Forbos and his associates in the control of the process to dispose of the foreign rights to an English concern, with which they are now in correspondence. They will form a company and as soon as a sufficient supply of the plant can be provided for in the home market erect a plant and proceed to the turning out of the fibre.

In the Baltimore Manufacturers Record of a recent date, the history and culture of the ramie plant was fully discussed. Of its culture it says: "The cheif requsite for successfully raising ramie in a tropical or semi-tronical climate, light, sich, permeable soft, without hard-pan or swampy sub-soil and sufficient water supply for regular irregation."

After giving directions for the planting and care of the crop, it continues. "If ramie seeds are treated in this manner, in our southern states early in March, the young plants will make their appearance towards the eighth or tenth day after sowing.

"In this country ramie will yield four crops of stalks of from six to seven feet in length, between the 24th and 32d degrees of latitude; three crops of the same dimensions between the 32d and 37th degrees, and two fair crops of from four to six feet between the 37th and 40th degrees, if frost does not kill the roots. Farther north the plant cannot withstand the severity of the weather. Ramie, being a perrennial which requires almost no care or work after the first very carbon and the first very carbon and the fi plant cannot withstand the severity of the weather. Ramie, being a perrennial which requires almost no care or work after the first year, can be grown and its fibre prepared for 50 per cent less than cotton, leaving to the farmer from one single acre more clear benefit than his whole cotton crop brings.

Mr. Felix Fromery, of Yorktown, Texas, who prepared the article in the Record, from actual experience, figures out the average returns per acre for a year, of four crops, $600, and the expenses for raising and marketing the crop $200, leaving a profit of $400 to the acre.

By the dissolving process of Mr. Forbes, the By the dissolving process of Mr. Forbes, the plant can be reduced to fiber at an estimated cost of a cent a pound, which is very much cheaper than it has ever yet been prepared. By the processes now in use in India and Europe the stalks are allowed to lay in vats for from two to three weeks, until the bark has been rotted away. It is then washed and prepared with olive oil, the whole process being tedious and unsatisfactory as well as expensive. The new chemical process requires only three hours, and costs comparatively little. The value is at once seen, and the development of the process will not only be of great benefit to the consumer of all sorts of fabrics, but will open up a new field of agriculture in the south.

muscles of his back, on the right side, about the eighth rib.

He was resting so nicely, with such little signs of undue reaction, that it was decided not to attempt the removal of the ball for the present, at least.

The physicians thought that the principal danger now is in the formation of an abcess in the neighborhood of the wound. But about eleven o'clock internal hemorage set in, and Drs. Dan Howell, Stockston and R. W. Westmoreland had hard work to keep enough life in him to give him a chance to raily.

Stockston and R. W. Westmoreland had hard work to keep enough life in him to give him a chance to rally.

At one o'clock there was a slight improvement, after injections of ether and other remedies had been applied. Although porfectly conscious, the action of the heart was very weak, and respiration was labored from the suffusion of blood in the lung. His condition was regarded so setious that Mr. Clark Howell and Captain E. P. Howell were telephoned. A number of relatives of the family, including the aged mother and grief-stricken wife of the wounded man, remained near his bedside during the day and night.

Mr. Woodward was forty-one years old on November 26th, being the second of three brothers, Mr. Park Woodward bring the eldest and Mr. John Woodward the youngest of the trie. He was born in Bluffton, S. C., but his father removed to Georgia when he was a boy, and during the war he served with the Marletta Cadets from the battle of Oconec to Savannah. He was in the same fight that caused Dr. Scott Todd the loss of an arm.

Mr. Woodward has long been a member of the National union, in which he carried $5,000 ln. surance; the Royal Arcanum, with $3,000, and the Mystic Greie with $5,000.

His family consists of his wife, who was Miss Ida Erwin, sister to Mrs. E. P. Howell, and three daughters and a son. The eldest daughter is thirt, en or fourteen years of age.

Mr. Woodward has led a quiet and uneventful life of business for many years, and was the last man whom his friends would have supposed to become the target for an assassin's pistol.

The identity of the murderous assaliant is still a mystery, although the police have made a thorough search for him. Mr. Woodward had been asked to go out and collect some bills on Marietta street Thursday afternoon, and that was where he had been when the shot was fired.

He was returning home, and is able to tell no more than when he was first wounded. that as he passed a dark place near the janction of Magazine streets some unknown man accosted him and asked if he were Ji

NEW YORK STOCKS.

Stocks as Reported at the New York Stock Exchange.

NEW YORK, December 27.—In the stock man ket today the transactions actually made in stocks were ot small moment, and the absorbing feature was the money market, which as usual of inte upon Fridays was given a little squeeze. The rate for call loans ruled all the first hour at about 839, but soon after that it began to advance, and from 9 it went to 12, and with one stride 20 was bid. The passage to 30 was quick, but that was the maximum for the day. The reaction was almost as sudden, and during most of the after-noon it ruled from fitteen to twenty, but after all the borrowers were accommodated it was offered down to 5 per cent, at the close. The wonder was that with such a rate for money and all speculative powers culisted upon the side of lower prices that there should be no further decline than was, had, but the market remained fairly steady throughout the greater portion of the day, with a sagging ten-the greater portion of the day, with a sagging tendency at times in the general list.

High rates for money again brought down rates for sterling exchange and the demand rate is now within the gold importing point, which gave rise to rumors of an engagement of gold upon the other side for shipment to this country. The feeling was that the importation of gold could not be long delegated and this served more than anything size is delayed, and this served more than anything else to buoy up the market for stocks. The only feature of dealings of interest today was really in sugar re-fineries. After a light decline in early trading, which had every appearance of covering of shorts, stock advanced from 56% to 59%, but settled back again to 55% at the close. Notwithstanding bear-ish feeling upon coal stock among traders, Lackawanna was well held and even showed some strength in the forenoon. Richmond and West Point was weak in early trading declining nearly one per cent, but railied somewhat later. Union Pacific and Burlington also slayed a heavy tone throughout and the latter ended with a material loss. The decline in Denver, Texas and Fort Worth was continued, though its net loss was only fractional. Other changes were entirely insignificantf and the market closed fairly steady and duil, but generally at something under the opening figures. Sales 80,000 shares. Exenange quiet and weak at 451@485. Money tight at 3. Subtreasury balances: Coin $161,156,000 currency, $7.119,000. Governments dull; 4s 1271/4;

4,108,105 Henry Clews & Co.'s Circular.

NEW YORK, December 27.—[Special.]—The market developed firmness and more animation today, and the shorts were desirous of covering their contracts in anticipation of lighter receipts at the ports and a decrease of about 15,000 bales in the interior movement over last year and continued heavy exports to Europe. The closing was firm at the best prices of the day, showing a net gain of about 3 points over yesterday's final prices for the whole list, with the exception of December, which was rather soft on forced sales. As the Liverpool market is closed we anticipate a dull market until after the holidays are over, and therefore no material changes in values are likely to occur either was. The December option goes out on Monday, and as

Newport New Philadelphia

there is supposed to be a large long interest in January it is expected that notices for delivery on this option will start out early and be heavy.

HENRY CLEWS & Co. NEW YORK, December 27-The Sun's cotton review says: Futures opened quiet, but at once made a smart advance on the pressure that was put upon December contracts by, it was said, a leading Grock house. But this did not amount to much, and when the demand fell off the early demand was soon lost. Then reports of receipts from interior towns began to come in, and they fell below the estimates figures from Georgia towns being especially disap-pointing. A renewal of the demand from this cause carried back prices to the best figures of the day, and the close was firm. Cotton on the spot was steady.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Features of the Speculative Movement in Grain and Provisions.
CHICAGO, December 27—There was a quiet and slow trade in the wheat market today, and the closing was %c lower for May and December. The opening was about the same as the closing yesteropening was about the same as the closing yester-day, but there was a fair quantity of wheat on sale, and thought by some parties to be long wheat. An easier feeling developed, prices declining \(\frac{1}{2} \)c. The market recovered slightly from the carly decline, influenced by a rather liberal export movement, but the improvement did not hold throughout the ression. Around the opening for May the market

A fair trade was reported in corn, the market rul-ing moderately active and firm early, but as the ses-sion advanced became quiet and easy, though at the sion advanced became quiet and easy, though at the close was active at inside prices. The market opened at yesterday's closing prices, and under a good demand from local shorts, who sold heavily for several days past, advanced 1/46%c. The demand, however, soon became satisfied, offerings being large, and the market declined 1/61/2c, be quiet and closed 1/61/2c lower than yesterday. late decline was attributed to large receipts, fine weather and the weakness in wheat. oats were active. All interest, however, centered in May. There was free selling by a large operator, and liberal covering for shorts by partles who sold at slightly higher prices. A good many buying orders for May at 22c were on the market, all of which were executed.

A fair trade was reported in pork, but the feeling was unsettled, and prices favored buyers. A decline of 2½,@5c was submitted to, and the market closed steady at medium figures.

A moderate trade was done in lard with the interest centered in January delivery. Prices were weak and 2½,@5c lower.

Short rib sides were dull and 2½,@5c lower. The market closed firm.

It was finally decided to postpone the hearing until the return of Commissioner Lester.

"From what point?"
"Well, possibly from Lawrenceville. That line pould be completed and run as a local road without waiting on the northern connection. Such a road would pay well, and the people along the line wart it hadly. That, however, is mere supposition."
"How long before the Georgia, Carolina and Northern will be complete from Monroe to Aislants." Supernumerary Boattle was brought before the board on a charge of fucil-clency. He was placed on duty at Er. Parks's residence Thursday night, to watch for the return of the burglar who threw rocks into the bouse Christmas eve and injured Mrs. Parks so seriously. "Not more than a year," was the prompt reply.

The Gwinnett county Heraid says, speaking of the early completion of the road: the early completion of the road:
"It will run at least thirty miles in the county and there will be spent for labor and material between two hundred and fifty to three hundred thousand doliars. This will be cash distributed along the line and will give steady employment to hundreds of hands. There will be at least three depots in the county, where business will be built up and the taxable property largely increased in value. This will give us such increased facilities transportation, and good markets that every neighborhood will feel the benefits. Lawrenceville will be the principal town between Athens and Atlanta." Bouse Caristmas eve and injured Mrs. Parks so seriously.

Beattle acknowledged that while on duty there he saw a man enter the backyard, but waited for him to get close enough so that he could capture or identify him. The man disappeared without having been hailed or accessed by the watchman. Chief Connolly was asked to notify Beattle that his resignation would be accepted.

LUCAS WINS THE RACE THREE MEN HOLD OUT TO THE

Lucas, Prater and Barker Contend for the First Place-A Big Crowd With Little Enthusiasm.

The trial of strength, endurance and speed which commenced Christmas evening ended last night as the clock struck eleven. Out of the six men who started when Mr. Morris gave the word go, only three were on the track when time was called.

Lucas, the unknown Philadelphian, proved too much for any of his opponents, and even Prater, the mountain wonder, is no longer the marvel that he was, as he has met one mightier than himself, and has been overcome.

The big crowd that collected to see the close of the race were interested, but by no means enthusiastic. Lucas was so far the freshes man and could so plainly leave Prater (the only man near him) whenever he felt like it, that there was no possibility for excitement. Early in the day Johnson retired from the track, worn out and disheartened, with a score of 151 miles. During the afternoon Gress, too, saw that he had no chance and retired after making 180 miles. Lucas, Prater and Barker, the three remaining contestants, continued on the course to the end.

Barker had accumulated 190 miles to his credit when eleven o'clock struck. He knew for several hours that he could not win, but he seemed determined to go on to the end and show what he could do. On the last lap his step was as springy and energetic as on the first, and had it not been that his face had grown a trifle darker in color during the fiftytwo hours, no one would have dreamed that he had particularly exerted himself. During the whole race he rarely, if ever, varied his square eel and toe walk.

Prater was not a pleasant sight to see to-ward the end of the race. He looked thin at the beginning in his worsted tights and green trunk. Last night he wore yellow silk stockings, red silk knee breeches, and the green trunk over all. The contrast of bright colors added to the ghastly appearance of his face, but he plodded on with a determined look and it was evident that only his strong will supported him to the end and enabled him to make 214 miles.

Lucas was a striking contrast to the others. He lounged about the course in a listless sort of way until he heard some one remark that he was tired out. Then with a grin he would start off at a fast run and twice during the evening he turned handsprings just to show his condition. During the evening Gress came back, after several hours' rest, and tried a heat with Lucas. After several laps he found all his efforts useless and gave up in despair. Lucas made 218 miles, which he could have considerably increased, had he cared to do so.

During the evening Policeman Hunter cre-During the evening Policeman Hunter created a sensation by dropping into the armory and asking to see a license. As there was none forthcoming it seemed for a time that there would be an end to the race. It was discovered finally that Mr. Gress had undertaken to get the license, and finding that he could not do so on Christmas day, he had forgotten all about the matter. The necessary $0.26 were paid, and the race went on. As a financial enterprise the walking match was not a startling success. Mr. Vandevere, the manager, has concluded that the time for the contest was not well chosen. He still be-the contest was not well chosen. He still be-lieves, however, that any kind of sport can be made successful in Atlanta. Mr. Berneir also believes their is money in walking matches, and he even thinks of organizing another in the near future.

The full scores made by the men were: Johnson, 151; Vandevere, 87; Gress, 180; Lucas, 218; Prater, 214; Baker, 190.

A New Invention.

Hon. R. A. Connell has just patented a ma-nure distributor which he thinks will revolutionize the mode of planting cotton, corn and other grain He has made arrangements to manufacture his goods in Atlanta.

Blount & Bell, of East Point, will have charge of the construction of the wood work, while the iron work will be under the supervision of the technological school shops. This distributor is highly recommended by the commissioner of agriculture and many prominent farmers throughout the states Mr. Conneil assures the public that this distributor is something entirely new, and will be of great value to the farmers throughout the south. He claims that for a long time something of this character in farming implements has been needed. Those who may be interested in this distributor, may write to Mr. R. A. Connell, at Bainbridge, Ga.

A Small Fire. At No. 178 East Hunter there was a small fire last night. The roof was burned off, but the department stopped the flames before they had time The contents of the house were fully insured, and the damage was not more than $100.

Wednesday, January 1st, for one night only, the above popular comedy will be offered at the operahouse by Frank Jones's company. This rustic comedy has filled all theaters from pit to dome everywhere, and has nearly all the time played to standing room only since it has touched the south. It is intensely funny and gives a perfect portraiture

It is intensely funny and gives a perfect portraiture of northern farmers' li'e and manners.

The Cincinnati Enquirer says of it: "Si Perkins, from Pughtown," opened at this house yesterday and was greeted by the usual large Sunday audience, who laughed and applauded till their very sides ached. "Si Perkins, from Pughtown," is oute of the most laughable comedies seen here this season. The company presenting it is fully competent to do it justice. Mr. Frank Jones as "Si Perkins," a rural threshing machine agent, is original in his creation of the part, and is exactly fitted for the character. Miss Alice Montague made a very good "Zana," and the company gave ample assistance toward making the performance unique and exceedingly entertaining. The threshing machine in operation was greeted with applause, and was very realistic.',
